Session I

In conversation with Mr Peter Mattsson

1415 – 1500 Hrs

Day 1

Friday, 25 March 2022

In conversation with Mr Peter Mattsson

A one-on-one discussion to help initiate a new industry partnership between Sweden & India, discussing potential synergies for sports development. We will be exploring Sweden's growth story in sports development, as they have seen a hike in participation in sport and physical activity. It has shown an increase with the level of education, with the highest participation rates found among those with post-secondary education. Over 60% of the total population ranging from 16–84 years participate at least twice a week. These notable changes may pave the way to inspire Indian sports development and help India in discovering its potential to be a target market for Swedish sports leagues

Session II

Resuming Sports in the States

1500 – 1545 Hrs

Day 1

Friday, 25 March 2022

Resuming Sports in the States

A panel discussion with the national frontrunners on restarting sports operations and driving the youth in India. At the beginning of 2020, nobody would have imagined that a match, let alone tournaments in their entirety, will be held in empty stadiums and quiet atmospheres as the pandemic brought the sporting world to a standstill. Prior to the pandemic, we saw an 8% YoY growth in the sports sector in India, which is now predicted to grow at only 3.3% in the coming 3-5 years. Bridging this gap will increasingly require the state authorities to step in, as well as highlight the impact of sporting events and help grassroots programmes reach all communities.

Session III

Resumption of Sports in the Schools

1545 – 1630 Hrs

Day 1

Friday, 25 March 2022

Resumption of Sports in the Schools

A Panel discussion on the importance of sports & physical education in schools. Sport has long been used as a tool to bring together students in schools. With schools adapting to the virtual environment, physical education has definitely taken a hit. With all the perils of virtual learning, the conversation around sport being introduced as a mandatory subject in school curriculum, has received the much-needed attention. It teaches essential life skills, improves academic performance, boosts health, as well as opens up new opportunities to achieve success, all of which could be advantageous in the current scenario. Schools are also increasingly exploring other ways to utilize their existing sports facilities. One of the most popular methods is the 'Pay & Play' model, which could perhaps be a long-term solution to partner with private academies for operating & maintaining school sports facilities

Esports Landscape in India

1530 – 1630 Hrs

Day 2

Saturday, 26 March 2022

Esports Landscape in India

A panel discussion of the emergence and future of eSports in India. The esports industry is one of the hottest topics globally as well as in India. India is expected to cross 1.5 million esports players in FY25 and the female occupancy in that is estimated to reach 30 percent, which marks a rise in female eSports players in India. Adding to its popularity, India is also increasingly seeing leading Indian sportspersons working with eSports platforms. We saw that Rooter Gaming signed Yuzvendra Chahal to stream on their platform, as did OnePlus. Among other aspects, eSports in Asian Games 2022 is going to be a game changer for the segment. Maybe even paving the way for India to host live eSports events in the future.
